

ABSTRACT

Creativity can be fostered from an early age, developing creativity from small things to become bigger. Illustration by exploring materials into 3 dimensions is one way to develop creativity for young people to be more innovative. Illustration 3 dimensions is the development of exploration for the field of fashion. In addition to building creativity it also introduces various materials to people who are interested in the field of fashion to better know various types of materials and materials. The age that is estimated to be in the field of fashion from young people aged 15 to 35 years where the age to explore starting from oneself and developing. Children aged 15 years who usually sit in high school can be targeted targets for those who have an interest in fashion can be introduced to creativity in developing 3-dimensional illustrations. The audience of drawing training illustration is high school students in Meruya that are categorized as young people organization in Jakarta. This community service offers technical skills in drawing illustration that are relevant to the needs of young people to express their creativity and improve their skills.

Keywords: drawing illustration, creativity, fashion